Congressional Research Service Report: Arctic Ocean Sea Ice Extent & Age Of Ice
The Arctic Ocean sea ice extent and age of ice have been declining rapidly in recent years. This report examines the causes and consequences of this trend. The Arctic Ocean is a unique and important part of our planet's climate system. It is home to a variety of life and plays a key role in regulating the Earth's temperature. The sea ice cover is a critical component of the Arctic ecosystem and is essential for the survival of many species. The decline in sea ice extent and age of ice is a major concern for scientists and policymakers alike. This report provides a comprehensive overview of the current state of the Arctic sea ice and discusses the potential impacts of continued melting. It also offers recommendations for further research and policy action. Attention: Mike Weiss FROM : American Law Division Mar 1th, 2024
